

ACCIDENTAL?

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death on the man who fell from the window ledge on which he had fallen asleep. But the death was really due to carelessness, which made the accident possible.

There are a great many lives suddenly terminated as a result of carelessness, although this medical certificate may read "heart failure."

When a man takes chances with his stomach and neglects the warning symptoms of disease, he is carelessly inviting calamity.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cleanses the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, which makes strength. It stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and removes bilious impurities from the blood.

"I had been troubled with a pain in lower part of my stomach for three years, as severe as I thought it would be, and in December, 1899, I was taken down with it. I was in bed for a week, and I had to take medicine. I used stomach bitters for a time, but it did no good. I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, which he gave me immediately. I followed his directions and used two bottles of his medicine and was cured. I had a terrible liver which was troubled with biliousness (as I thought), so Dr. Pierce told me I have pleasure in telling you, have gained in weight 15 pounds since then."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They do not hurt the pill habit.

For Constipation

Take Lyon's Laxative Syrup. An ideal remedy for constipation, biliousness, indigestion, headache, and all ailments of the bowels.

MRS. L. S. ADAMS.

Of Canton, Texas.

"Wine of Cardui is indeed a blessing to tired women. Having suffered for seven years with weakness and bearing-down pains, and having tried several doctors and different remedies with no success, your Wine of Cardui was the only thing which helped me, and eventually cured me. It seemed to build up the weak parts, strengthen the system and correct irregularities."

By "tired women" Mrs. Adams means nervous women who have disordered natures, falling of the womb, ovarian troubles or any of these ailments that women have. You can cure yourself at home with this great woman's remedy, Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui has cured thousands of cases which doctors have failed to cure. Why not begin to get well today? All druggists have $1.00 bottles. For raw stomach, liver or bowel disorder, Dr. J. C. Williams' Black-Blood-Purifier should be used.

WINE OF CARDUI

CRUELTY

TO INSANE PATIENTS.

Lakeland Asylum in a Bad Light.

Eye Witnesses of Brutality by Attendants.

DR. FURNISH COMPLACENT.

Attaches Little Importance to Reports and Expects no Investigation.

"There will be no investigation of the charges of cruelty which have been made against the attendants of this institution," said Dr. J. G. Furnish, Superintendent of the Central Insane Asylum at Lakeland, to a Herald reporter.

Superintendent Furnish was seated in his office at the asylum, and the manner in which he made the above statement, indicated that he attached little importance to the assertions that patients at the institution had been the victims of brutal assaults. In the course of the conversation, Dr. Furnish said that he had looked into the matter thoroughly, and was convinced that the charges were without foundation. In seeking to explain the motive which any person of persons might have for making sensational charges against the methods employed at the asylum, the superintendent declared that residents of the vicinity were trying to bring the management of the institution into bad odor, because harmless patients at the asylum were allowed to walk out with their attendants when the weather was good.

"They have tried to have us indicted by the grand jury, and they are disappointed because of failure," he said.

Mrs. Memie Slater, who lives a short distance from the asylum, showed evidence of amusement when told that Dr. Furnish was defending the attendants of the institution.

"The life which those unfortunate people must live behind the closed doors of the asylum is horrible to think about," said Mrs. Slater. "From what I have seen with my own eyes on a public thoroughfare I dare not think of what is possible when the patients are alone with their keepers."

"Last Wednesday I witnessed the most brutal occurrence that I ever heard of. I saw an attendant of the asylum kick and beat an inoffensive patient until the victim fell to the ground prostrated. I was beside myself with indignation, and before I knew it, I was running to the rescue of the patient. Then I realized that, being a woman, I could do no good by using force, and I determined to wait and see what the law could do."

Mrs. Slater said that she would rather not have her name used in connection with the case, but that she was ready at any time to go before a board of inquiry and tell what she had witnessed. Then she pointed to a grassy plot directly behind the Lakeland depot of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, which was 200 yards away from her home.

"Do you see that little green sward?" she asked. "Well, on bright sunny days the attendants of the asylum bring out the patients in squads and let them sit around on the grass. The women and the men are brought out together, and they all have to sit in a row. If the ground is damp they have to sit down anyway, for I have seen them sitting on the ground when I would not dare to go out without overcoats."

"Last Wednesday there were about 200 patients seated about, and I sat on my front porch and watched them for a while. There were five or six attendants in charge of the group. All at once one of the men patients reared up mightily and reached out as though to pick up something. The next instant a big, burly attendant came running up from behind and kicked the patient, who fell forward on his face. The attendant then kicked the prostrate man several times in the sides. The patient made no effort to resist. He merely cried piteously and put his arms about his head in an effort to ward off the blows."

"I started to run down to the station, and I guess the attendant heard me scream, for he quit kicking the patient and picked him up bodily and slammed him down roughly in his place in the line. Soon the patients were taken back to the asylum. I went down to the depot and asked Mrs. Mary Terry, the agent, if she had seen the brutal attack. She said that she had not, but that she believed anything was possible so far as the treatment of the patients was concerned."

"I told her what I had witnessed, and she tried to call Dr. Furnish over the telephone to report the attendant, but she could not get him. We both tried to learn the name of the attendant, but by inquiring of other attendants, but they professed ignorance of any unusual treatment."

Mrs. Mary Terry, who has lived in the neighborhood of the asylum for years, and whose family once owned the land on which the institution was built, was seen and she readily told what she knew of the conditions at the asylum.

"The treatment which those patients received at the hands of the attendants is a disgrace to humanity," said Mrs. Terry. "I was busy in the office when the assault which Mrs. Slater describes occurred, and I was not a witness. However, I know that something terrible occurred, or Mrs. Slater could not have been so agitated. She was trembling with rage when she came to the station shortly after the inhuman assault. I tried to learn the name of the attendant, but I could not, and I wrote a letter to Dr. Furnish, stating the facts of the outrage."

"About ten days ago I was looking out of the window of the station. There were several patients there with an attendant. When the guard was ready to march them back to the asylum, he lined them up like a company of soldiers. One of the patients got out of line and the attendant ran up to him and caught him by the shoulders, shaking and kicking him until he was tired of his exertions."

"But I am not the only one who has been shocked by the actions of the attendants at the asylum," continued Mrs. Terry. "Almost every one who lives out here has seen more than enough to convince them that all is not right, and I believe that a large number of intelligent witnesses from this section could be found to testify before an investigating body. Even my little niece, who is only thirteen years old, has come to me crying, and told me that the attendants were beating some of the unfortunate men or women who were confined at the asylum."

"The attendants have no right to bring large parties of patients down around the depot. The practice is a nuisance to the neighborhood, and then the patients get out on the railroad tracks and some of them are in danger of being killed. There is plenty of room on the farm of the institution where the patients can be exercised without inconveniencing the public."

"I do not pass much weight in these charges," said Dr. Furnish. "If these people think that attendants are brutal all they have to do is to come here and point out the man who abuses patients, and I will summarily dismiss him from the service. We have more than 1,200 patients here and about 100 attendants, and sometimes incidents occur which are unavoidable."

"I do not intend to bother about sensational statements, and the public can believe them or not. I do not believe that our record for managing the institution can be soiled. I do not fear an inquiry."

Dr. Thomas P. Satterwhite, a member of the Asylum Board of Commissioners, said: "All I know about brutality at the asylum is what I have read in the newspapers. There has been no official report to my knowledge."

"Will there be an investigation?" was asked.

"I cannot say," replied Dr. Satterwhite. "That will depend on the developments which may come."—Louisville Herald.

Timing Himself.

Mr. Jagway had been on a prolonged spree. When he began to realize what he was doing he found himself walking aimlessly along the street.

"Officer," he said to the first policeman he met, "what day of the week is this?"

"Thursday," was the reply.

"Mr. Jagway walked on till he met another one."

"Officer," he said, "what day of the month is this?"

"The 28th," was the reply.

A block further on he encountered a third policeman.

"Officer," he asked him, "will you be kind enough to tell me what month this is?"

"January," said the officer, eyeing him with suspicion.

"Thanks," rejoined Mr. Jagway, proceeding on his way. "I think I know what year it is."—Chicago Tribune.

A NEGRO TRADER

Story of a Tragedy Told by a Tombstone.

When the late Mr. Shakespeare wrote that there were "Sermons in Stones," the great dramatic genius might have peered far enough into the future to have included grave-stones in his category; for more than one of the latter, even in our own beautiful City of the Dead, tells a sad tale and furnishes the text for a pathetic sermon, says the Maysville Public Ledger.

In a neatly kept plot a few blocks north of the main entrance to the Maysville cemetery stands and unpretentious headstone thus inscribed:

My Husband,

JAMES M'ILLIN,

BORN

July 26, 1846,

Was Murdered in the city of Memphis

By Isaac L. Bolton,

May 23, 1857.

Aged

50 Yrs. 10 Mo. 27 Ds.

Beyond this lies a story of the antebellum days, when slavery was recognized as a "divine institution," and when the traffic in human beings was regarded as a legitimate if not an honorable business enterprise.

was a NIGGER TRADER.

Jim McMillin, as he was familiarly known, was in the parlance of that period, a "nigger trader." At the time of which we write he lived in a house in the "brick row" in West Second street, using the cellar for a "pen," the windows and doors being secured by iron bars, bolts and locks. As he bought slaves he herded them in this pen until he secured a "drove," when he took them South by boat—there was no direct railway communication in those unprogressive days—disposing of them to other and more extensive "nigger traders" in the cotton and sugar centers, Memphis being a favorite market—just as Cincinnati is to-day the favorite market for the Mason county farmer's drove of hogs.

Among the largest "dealers" in Memphis were N. B. Forrest, afterward the famous Confederate cavalry leader, and Bolton, Dickens & Co., the latter firm conducting an immense slave pen at the foot of Howard row on the river front, with branches in Richmond, Va., and Montgomery, Ala.

Some months previous to the fatal occurrence Mr. McMillin had sold a bunch of negroes to the latter firm, among which was a "likely young mulatto"—as they were described in the sale bills.

This "boy" was to become free upon reaching a certain age, and this fact was stated to the buyers at the time of sale.

Subsequently Bolton, Dickens & Co., disposed of the slave farther South, without, however, disclosing the fact of his limited servitude; and when the truth became known to the last purchasers he called the Memphis firm to account.

It must be remembered that Memphis in 1857 was a long way removed from Maysville. The telegraphic service was an "infant industry," the telephone was unknown, and speediest mode of direct travel was by steamboat.

In May, 1857, Mr. McMillin made his first trip to Memphis after the occurrence above stated. On the date recorded in his epitaph he was seated in the office of Bolton, Dickens & Co., talking with Mr. Dickens.

Mr. Bolton entered, and Mr. Dickens arose and said:

"Mr. Bolton, this is Mr. McMillin, of Kentucky."

In those days it was the proper custom for every Southern gentleman to "tote" an arsenal, re-enforced with the favorite Bowie knife.

Without waiting for a word of explanation, and with all the fires of "chivalry" converted into a conflagration, Bolton, with the frenzy of a demon, exclaimed:

"You are the ——— that sold us a free nigger!" At the same time shooting McMillin with a Derringer, and instantly drawing a Bowie-knife and literally disemboweling his defenseless victim.

McMillin died in a few minutes and somewhat singularly, Bolton was arrested and committed to the "Brown Eagle" without bail—Brown Eagle being the euphonious name for the local jail.

The excitement in Memphis rose to the highest tension, for there were thousands of noble people there who deprecated the frequency of murder and the uniform dismissal of the offender.

shot and killed a respectable putnam-maker named Jim Everson in Adams street.

This was the "last straw" and within a few hours the Brown Eagle was surrounded by a tremendous crowd of infuriated citizens, bent upon lynching Abell, and it was only by reason of the most urgent appeals from prominent speakers that the crowd dispersed and quite was restored.

While Bill McEwen, one of the local editors of the Bulletin, was standing on the jailyard fence addressing the citizens, he lost his balance, and the writer, who was then an attaché of that office, saved him from falling into an old-fashioned well which was just behind him.

During this turmoil Bolton—who was confined in the dungeon, and not knowing of the Abell-Everson affair—thought the mob was after him; and the prayers he sent up would have filled a volume.

After the lapse of a year Bolton's case was called for trial.

Owing to the settlement in Memphis, a change of venue was granted, and the case was removed to Covington in the county of Tipton.

He had the ablest "criminal lawyers" that money could procure in that section, and it was thought that if he could secure an attorney and some "willing witnesses" from Mr. McMillin's own home it would strengthen his case very materially.

So the late Judge Richard H. Stanton, of this, was employed, and he summoned to Memphis a brace of witnesses who were expected to sweat to any old statement that would damage Mr. McMillin's character and influence the jury in Bolton's behalf.

These witnesses were King Plummer, Bob Thompson, Dan Glascock, Life Cone, Bob Powers, Squire Bliss, Jim Reed and Lou Jackson, the latter a negro formerly belonging to the late John M. Wilson, by whom he had been freed—probably because of his worthlessness.

OATH AT A DISCOUNT.

Plummer was the only witness put on the stand, but when, in answer to the Prosecuting Attorney's question, he said he knew Lou Jackson and had "played cards with him," he was promptly told to stand aside, for in that day a white man who would play cards with a "nigger" was so much below the "nigger" that his oath was at a discount of about 99 per cent.

Of the remaining witnesses, Cone and Bliss refused to please the lawyers by swearing to a falsehood, and the entire party was sent home. With the exception of Reed, all, including Judge Stanton, have long since testified in the Supreme Court above.

In behalf of the prosecution, the Rev. Dr. R. C. Grundy, formerly of this city, but then pastor of the Beale street Presbyterian church; Hamilton Gray, the well-known Maysville merchant; George Nelson and Andrew Newell, the latter two then in business in Memphis, were called to establish McMillin's character for peace and good citizenship, for he was the most amiable of men. These, two, have long passed away.

BOLTON ACQUITTED.

At the conclusion of the trial Bolton was acquitted by a jury, every one of whom it was believed had been bought outright with the murderer's gold.

Then came the ghastly sequel. The expenses of the trial had been enormous—fully $100,000, Judge Stanton alone getting a fee of $5,000 in gold—and Bolton, set up the claim that the firm should foot the bills.

This was resisted by Mr. Dickens and the other interests, and the consequence was a falling out among the partners, antagonizing litigation and finally a bitter feud.

First, there was a killing between the principals, and the murderers spirit extended on both sides until within less than twenty-five years, nineteen persons had been shot down in the open or assassinated in the dark—all of which is prefaced by the unpretentious headstone in our cemetery.

The Bolton-Dickens vendetta is the most celebrated in the South, as it was indeed one of the bloodiest in all history.

It has been the purpose of the writer to connect the local actors with the event in its first stages, rather than to give the extended facts that followed.

Danger of Colds and Grip. The greatest danger from colds and grip is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

DISGUISED CATARRH.

A Stealthy, Insidious, Weakening Enemy to Women.

REV. HARRIET R. EDWARDS, CLINTON, IA.

Rev. Harriet R. Edwards in a recent letter from Mt. Pleasant Park, Clinton, Ia., writes:

"I have found that Peruna is a wonderful medicine to use in diseases peculiar to women. It quickly and permanently restores health and vigor and acts as a natural tonic to a worn-out system. I have so far never observed a case which was not greatly aided by its use."—REV. DR. H. R. EDWARDS.

THERE are a multitude of women, especially housewives, and all other women obliged to be on their feet constantly, who are wretched beyond description, simply because their strength and vitality is sapped away by catarrhal discharges from the pelvic organs. These women get up in the morning tired, drag themselves through their daily duties, only to go to bed at night as tired as before.

Peruna is such a perfect specific for each case that when patients have once used it they can never be induced to quit it until they are permanently cured. It begins to relieve the disagreeable symptoms at once. The backache ceases, the trembling knees are strengthened, the appetite restored, the digestion made perfect, the dull headache is stopped and the weakening drains are gradually cured. These results certainly follow a course of treatment with Peruna.

Jo. B. Crowley, Congressman from Illinois, writes from Robinson, Ill.:

"Mrs. Crowley has taken a number of bottles of Peruna on account of nervous troubles. It has proven a strong tonic and lasting cure. I can cheerfully recommend it."—Jo. B. Crowley.

A SENSATION EXPLODED.

No Remains of Murdered People Found as Predicted.

On the 12th of February, last, a strange letter was published in the leading papers of the State purporting to emanate from Gresham, Green county, to the effect that there had been strange disappearances of men in Green county in the past and particulars would be given by addressing Box 2 of the postoffice at that place. The report was looked upon with disdain even when it was learned that the writer had become known and was willing to go before the grand jury with his story. At the present session of that body Luther Blakeman, an old citizen of the county, made his statements even citing his brother, a member of the body, as a witness, together with an old citizen, both the gentlemen declaring they knew nothing of such occurrences as the murder and burial of strangers as Mr. Blakeman stated, nor even heard of the same but through said Blakeman. To quiet the story for all time Ellisor McGinnis was instructed to investigate fully, and a posse composed of Pilon Smith, Dr. W. Helm and Creed Paxton, accompanied by Blakeman, thoroughly dug up every place he pointed out, and found nothing. They dug upon the ground in a tobacco barn and stable on Aaron Moss' farm and a tobacco barn on an adjoining farm recently bought by Ed Blakeman with the above result. Mr. Blakeman insists the remains were removed, while the posse are confident the ground never had been disturbed. Mr. Blakeman was then thought to be suffering from an hallucination and was examined in court and pronounced sane. The matter is still in suspense and the grand jury, it is thought, will investigate still further.—Greensburg Record.

SEVERE ATTACK OF GRIP

Cured by one Bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"When I had an attack of the grip last winter (the second one) I actually cured myself with one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Frank W. Perry, Editor of the Enterprise, Shortsville, N. Y. "This is the honest truth. I at times kept from coughing myself to pieces by taking a teaspoonful of this remedy, and when the coughing spell would come on at night I would take a dose and it seemed that in the briefest interval the cough would pass off and I would go to sleep perfectly free from cough and its accompanying pains. To say that the remedy acted as a most agreeable surprise is putting it very mildly. I had no idea that it would or could knock out the grip, simply because I had never tried it for such a purpose, but it did, and it seemed with the second attack of coughing the remedy caused it to not only be of less duration, but the pains were far less severe, and I had not used the contents of one bottle before Mr. Grip had bid me adieu." Mrs. Wm. Helwick, Kennett, Washington county, Mo., writes:

"I am fifty-five years old and have the faintest idea of the condition of life before I was married. I was in misery and very weak, and my flesh so tender that I could not stand the heat of the sun. I had pain under my shoulder blades, in the joints of my back and hips. I sometimes wished myself out of this world. Had hot and cold spells, dizziness, and trembling of the limbs, and was losing flesh all the time."

"After following your directions and taking Peruna I am now feeling like a different person."—Mrs. Wm. Helwick.

Barbara Alberty, corner Seventh and Walnut streets, Appleton, Wis., writes as follows in regard to Peruna:

"For years I have suffered with backache and severe pains in the side. I doctored so much that I became discouraged."

"A school friend told me how very much Peruna had benefited her and I sent out for a bottle, which did more to relieve me than all the other medicine I had ever taken."

"I used it faithfully for two weeks and it completely cured me. I have not had any pains since, anywhere, but feel like a new woman."—Barbara Alberty.

Mrs. D. W. Mason, 301 Dauphin street, New Orleans, La., writes:

"I have been taking your Peruna and Manilla and can cheerfully recommend it to all those suffering with the same trouble that I was. I have been suffering for the past two years with female weakness, palpitation of the heart, stomach, kidney and liver disorder, and above all a dreadful cough with mothering spells. I was completely run down."

"After I had taken one bottle of Peruna and a few doses of your Manilla, I could sleep soundly, my heart was better, my cough left me, it acted immediately upon my nerves, and after taking four bottles according to your directions, I was entirely cured of all my troubles."

"I can truthfully say that there is nothing to equal your Peruna and Manilla. I was a different woman after taking the second bottle. It is without a doubt the best medicine in the world. Language fails to express my gratitude for this cure. May God bless you!"—Mrs. D. W. Mason.

CARTER H. HARRISON was elected Mayor of Chicago Tuesday for the fourth time. His majority was only 6,000.

GOVERNOR Beckham will open his campaign with a speech at Owensboro Monday.

AUGUST E. WILSON, George W. Long, Clifton J. Pratt and James B. Brethitt are the big four from which the Republican candidate for Governor will be chosen.

MR. CHAIRMAN, we place in nomination the name of Hon. R. W. Slack, of Owensboro, for the Republican nomination for Attorney General of Kentucky.

NEARLY a dozen farm houses have burned in Ohio county in the last two weeks. No incendiary is suspected, yet this fire record has never been approached in the county before.

THERE is an effort being made among the wise ones of the Democratic party to induce Beckham to withdraw, under promise of succession to Jo Blackburn's seat in the U. S. Senate.

WITH its accustomed sympathy for candidates defeated in Republican conventions, the Hartford Herald sheds some tears for Mr. Len Sandefur. But Mr. Sandefur is not a candidate for Democratic sympathy.

THE Republican convention here Monday was the most harmonious ever held in the county, and the capable and deserving young men nominated for Representative and Circuit Court Clerk, will have an easy march to victory in November.

THE freeze last week seriously damaged the fruit crop throughout the county. In the lowlands the peaches were killed outright, and it is feared the freeze will result in causing much of the entire crop to drop early and the balance to ripen imperfectly.

THE Owensboro Inquirer was loyal to the profession when it declined to allow the State Fair Commissioners to censor its columns. Every reputable newspaper in Kentucky will lead it in aid to the enterprise of a State Fair, but none of them will disgrace itself by submitting to a censorship at the hands of the Fair Commissioners.

M. E. INGALLS, president of the Big Four Railroad, wanted to be President of the United States and start in that direction by being Mayor of Cincinnati, but Julius Fleischman, a young German Republican, nipped millionaire Ingalls' Presidential aspiration in the bud by defeating him for Mayor of Cincinnati in the municipal election Tuesday.

HANG Cincinnati! A Southern gentleman don't stand on show over there, nohow. Col. Jack Chinn "the last of Mohegans" as were of the old school of Kentucky knights of the bow and arrow, has been heard by a measly Cincinnati town marshal. Such an outrage upon the Kentucky gentleman should be resented. Col. Chinn bought about $75.00 worth of wearing apparel from a Cincinnati store and a negro was sent around to collect the bill. The Colonel was too generous to shoot him on the spot, but swore at him in several languages. Instead of sending the head of the house around to offer an apology, the store sent a big burly marshal to the Colonel's room at his hotel to attach his property. Of course this made the Colonel's blood boil and he ordered the marshal to leave instantly. But the marshal—cold blooded northerner that he was, lacking in appreciation of Kentucky honor—actually overpowered the brave Colonel and stripped him of his bow pistol and bowie knife. With these gone the Colonel, humiliated and harmless, shook the dust of Cincinnati from his feet. Col. Chinn says he will never set foot in Cincinnati again. A just punishment for such outrageous treatment.

The Mountain Sentinel is published at Manchester, Clay county, the capital of the feudist's country and is edited by Fred S. Horton, who wants to represent the counties of Clay, Owsley and Jackson in the Lower House of the next General Assembly.

Of course, we are for him. Editors must stand together for better or worse, but just how Mr. Horton is going to have money enough left to buy a home for his wife and little girls out of his salary, as a legislator, after paying the expenses of a canvass and a winter at Frankfort, out of $300, we cannot imagine. Either houses or canvassing is cheap round about the country adjacent to Manchester.

FORDSVILLE.

Mrs. Sam Gaines has been very ill this week.

Mr. Otto Fowler, who is now traveling for the Booklover's Library was here Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Dr. Gillespie, who has been an invalid for several years, is able to be out and has been spending several days with friends here.

Mr. Harry Newsom, of Ensor, was a guest at Mr. J. T. Smith's Sunday night en route to Shelbyville.

Mrs. McWise and Mrs. Essie Piland went to Louisville Monday for a visit.

Messrs. I. C. Adair and Mack Smith went to Hartford Monday.

Miss Jessie Brady, of Irvington, was the guest of Miss Ola Gaines Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. T. H. Lloyd died here at his home Monday morning at 8 o'clock of paralysis. For years Mr. Lloyd has been an honored citizen of our town and community and a very great loss has been sustained by his death.

Messrs. Ellis Lloyd, of Pittsburg, Pa., and Henry Lloyd, of Beaver Dam, were here several days at the bedside of their father before his death. Mrs. H. L. Stum, of Sacramento, and little daughter, Nina, passed through here Saturday en route to Glendene to visit Mrs. Stum's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moorman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Graham and Messrs. Willie and Hubbard Graham, of Narrows, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Smith Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith have moved into one of Bro. Ratcliff's houses formerly occupied by Mr. Shrewsbury, who now occupies the residence vacated by Mr. A. Henderson and family.

Dr. Flemister has sold his residence to Mr. Ed Morrison and will build on a lot near to his father-in-law, Mr. Jett McCarty.

Miss Flora Haynes, who is the milliner at Magan, has been very sick for several days.

Mr. Ernest Robertson, of Glendene, was here Tuesday.

Miss Jessie Reynolds wishes to extend, through this estimable paper, her very gracious thanks to those who gave her their interest and support in the recent contest, and to assure them she will always remember this honor accorded her with very great pleasure and appreciation.

Pratt Out for Governor.

Frankfort, Ky., April 7.—Attorney General Clifton J. Pratt will leave for Madisonville to-morrow, where, after a consultation with his neighbors and personal friends, he will formally announce his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Hundreds of letters have been received by Judge Pratt in the past three days, demanding that he take this course, and he finally decided to duly announce his candidacy. A mass meeting of Republicans will be held to endorse him at Madisonville.

He Bought a "Gold Brick."
Elkton, Ky., April 7.—Two strangers swindled Ben D. Johnson, of this city, out of $5,000 Monday night with the gold brick game.

The strangers were seen here on that day and were heard several times inquiring for Mr. Johnson. They claimed to represent some Western gold mining company, and were out selling what gold they had so that they might buy new machinery. They put up such a tale that Mr. Johnson thought he was getting a good thing out of it.

He paid them $5,000 for what seemed to be $16,000 worth of gold. Mr. Johnson received a letter from them mailed at Paducah, Ky., saying that the block of material was brass, and advising him, for his sake, to keep it all a secret.

Have you ever read any of Swedenborg's Works? If not, will you send me your address enclosing a stamp or two and I will mail you one of his books FREE State whether you want it in English or in German—Adolph Roeder, 85 Cleveland Street, Orange, N. J.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

An Enthusiastic Body of Republicans Assembled at the Court House

And Nominate Two of Ohio County's Most Popular Young Men for Offices.

Pursuant to call the Republicans of Ohio county assembled in delegated convention at the court house here Monday. The convention was called to order by Col. C. M. Barnett. Mr. S. A. Anderson was elected chairman and Mr. J. H. Thomas secretary and Mr. R. R. Riley assistant secretary.

Mr. F. L. Sandefur having announced his intention to withdraw from the race and cast his strength for his opponent, Mr. E. G. Barrass, for Circuit Court Clerk, and thus relieving the convention of contests for nominations, a committee on credentials was not asked for.

On motion of Mr. M. S. Ragland a committee on resolutions was appointed as follows: M. S. Ragland, I. C. Adair, J. H. Davis, A. B. Stanley, J. M. Bishop, J. M. DeWese and J. H. Roberts.

While the committee on resolutions was out, Messrs. D. B. Rhodes, S. L. Stevens and A. S. Bennett entertained the convention with old time Republican speeches.

The committee on resolutions returned the following report which was adopted unanimously: "We, the Republicans of Ohio county, in convention assembled, endorse the call for this convention by the County Committee, and pledge our hearty support to its nominees. The Republican party has always been in favor of internal improvements and we pledge the party to the support of a better system of roads and bridges for Ohio county."

"We denounce the reckless and extravagant expenditures of the State's funds by the Democratic State Government in position a ring of officeholders who care nothing for the material welfare of the State."

"We induct the wise and courageous administration of President Roosevelt, which is giving the people the most prosperous times in the country's history."

"We desire to commend each of the candidates before this convention for Circuit Court Clerk, as worthy and tried Republicans who have, throughout the campaign, conducted themselves in such a manner as to win the approval of all good Republicans; and if agreeable to the parties interested, this convention would request that the nominee of this convention appoint his opponent as official deputy."

The chairman then called for nominations for Representative and the name of Dr. A. D. Park was put in nomination by Mr. Ernest Woodward. On motion the call of precincts was dispensed with and Dr. Park was nominated by acclamation. The unanimous, hearty and prolonged shouts of ayes that greeted the chairman's ears, attested the high regard of the Republicans of Ohio county for their young leader.

Dr. Park was called for and responded in a neat little speech that sent his stock, as an orator, up about one hundred per cent. as this was his "maiden" speech, as he humorously said.

When the chair called for nominations for Circuit Court Clerk, Mr. F. L. Sandefur, who had been a candidate for the nomination for that office, came forward and made a graceful withdrawal from the race and moved the nomination, by acclamation, of his opponent, Mr. E. G. Barrass. The motion carried unanimously amid a storm of enthusiasm that was meant to honor Sandefur as well as Barrass. Mr. Barrass was called for and in a few words fitted for the occasion, thanked the convention for honoring him and declared his determination to carry the Republican standard to victory at the November election.

NOTICE IN BANKRUPTCY.

In the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Kentucky, Owensboro Division. In the matter of Blon Maury Patterson, bankrupt.

To the creditors of Blon Maury Patterson, of Point Pleasant, in the County of Ohio and District aforesaid, bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 7th day of April, A. D. 1903 the said Blon Maury Patterson was duly adjudicated a bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at the law office of J. A. Dean, in Owensboro, Kentucky, on the 20th day of April, A. D., 1903, at 2 p. m., at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the Bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

INTENTIONS THAT COUNT.

Only Those That Practice Amount to Anything.

The paving of the road to a very uncomfortable place is said to be composed of good intentions. Nowhere else has this material been tried for paving, though it is plentiful enough for almost any purpose. We all know people whose houses burn when they are "just going to" insure, who lose a cow or a horse when they are "just going to" mend the fence or close the gate, who are "just going to" buy stock when it goes up like a rocket, who are "just going to" pay a note when it goes to protest, who are "just going to" help a neighbor when he dies, who are "just going to" send some flowers to a sick friend when it proves too late. In fact, they are "just going to" do things all their lives, but never get them started.

"To be always intending to live a new life, but never to find time to set about it," says Tilton, "is as if a man should put off eating and drinking until he is starved to death."

Under every clock in a factory at Cleveland, O., is the motto, "Do it now!" Such a motto, lived up to by every one, would spare the world much trouble. It would add thousands of good deeds to daily happenings, save many drams from bankruptcy through bad debts, paint hundreds of pictures only dreamed of, write books without number and straighten out half the tangles of our complicated social life.

The habit of putting off disagreeable duties is responsible for much needless unhappiness, for these burdens weigh on the mind and prevent the satisfied content that comes from duty well performed. Most tasks promptly undertaken are less difficult than we anticipated, and the joy of accomplishment often compensates for any hardship experienced.

Don't get to be known for unfulfilled good intentions. Good intentions carried out become the good deeds that make men useful, loved and famous. Doing things rather than just planning them makes all the difference between success and failure.—Success.

SCIENCE NOTES.

A body weighing one pound on earth would weigh twenty-seven and a half pounds upon the sun.

The highest mountain in the moon is at least 35,000 feet in height; that is 6,000 feet higher than Mount Everest.

Vanadium is a rare metal which oxidizes in air with great difficulty, melts at 2,000 degrees and becomes red hot in hydrogen.

Perfectly transparent bodies are only visible by virtue of nonuniform illumination, and in uniform illumination they become absolutely invisible.

A transit of Venus occurs only four times in 253 years. It is most important to astronomers because it gives them an opportunity of measuring the distance of the earth from the sun.

The sun and the earth are both practically spherical in shape, and the earth is evidently only a small, cooled off or frozen sun. The sun has a shell of glowing incandescent clouds, the earth has a shell of solid opaque rocks and metals.

A Hard Hearted People.

Philosophy finds no place in Thetian character. It is an uncommon thing for a son to turn his father, when too old for work, out of doors and to leave him to perish in the cold. The superstition that the souls of the dead can, if they will, haunt the living drives their hardened natures to gain by the exercise of cruelty the promise of the dying that they will not return to earth.

As death approaches the dying person is asked, "Will you come back or will you not?" If he replies that he will, they pull a leather bag over his head and another him; if he says he will not, he is allowed to die in peace.—Edinburgh Review.

A Very Ancient Snake.

The African cobra ranges from Egypt to the Cape of Good Hope. That it was known in northern Africa thousands of years ago is shown by its familiar appearance in Egyptian hieroglyphics.

New Cape Colony it is almost exterminated, and its destruction is much promoted by that curious and valued long legged hawk known as the secretary bird. Six or seven species of cobra have been distinguished, three of which belong to the Indian region.

Not Yet Ripe.

The physicians were holding a consultation beside the cot of the man supposed to have appendicitis concealed about his person.

"I believe," said one of the surgeons, "that we should wait and let him get stronger before cutting into him."

Before the other prospective operators could reply the patient turned his head and remarked feebly:

"What do you take me for—a cheese?"—Baltimore American.

THE CITY OF MEKINEZ.

One of the Royal Residences of the Sultan of Morocco.

There is no more interesting city in Morocco than Mekinez. Founded and built by Mulai Ismail, the tyrannical Sultan of the eighteenth century, it still displays the extraordinary buildings which he caused to be erected, largely by the aid of Christian slaves. Today it is impossible even to guess the purposes for which many of these masses of masonry were constructed. Walls of great thickness, some wide enough to drive a carriage and pair along, are met with in the most unexpected places, running here parallel, here at right angles to one another, and seeming as though built for no purpose except for the employment of the vast number of forced laborers that Mulai Ismail always kept at his court. Here and there are gateways of great beauty, such as the delicate tiled gate of "Mansur el-Ali," with its large marble columns and Corinthian capitals, supporting buttresses of gray stone and arabesques, but on the whole it is rather the vastness of the buildings than any artistic value that is remarkable.

The old palaces of Mulai Ismail are in ruins today, and each Sultan in his turn has erected new residences till the Imperial palace today consists of a collection of buildings of every shape and size, scattered among gardens enclosed by high walls. A tower, which was uncompleted at the time of the late Sultan's death, remains today just as the workmen left it, with the scaffolding still standing. Adjoining the palace is a large park, in which are kept a number of mares, ostriches and gazelles.

The city itself is tolerably clean, and possesses no particular features that are not common to all Moorish towns. The entrance of the principal mosque is striking, with great bronze doors said to have been brought by the Moors from Spain. The shops are comparatively few, and the trade never large—London Times.

OUR FIRST FREE SCHOOL.

It Was Established in Massachusetts in the Year 1641.

The first free school established in the United States was in the province of Massachusetts Bay in the year 1641 by order of the general colonial court.

In 1647 the same authority declared that free schools should be established within every town having fifty householders under penalty of a fine of £5. This fine was doubled by a declaration made in 1671 and again doubled in 1683. Connecticut established free schools in 1644 and levied a tax for their support. Maryland established free schools in 1644 and levied a tax on negroes, pelts, furs and beef and pork for their support. Governor Berkeley declared in 1640 the hope that free schools would never be established in Virginia, but the towns of Charleston and Elizabeth did establish them in that year, and Elizabeth set aside 200 acres of land and eight cows, the income from which was applied to support the schools. Four years later the number of cows had increased to forty. Pennsylvania was settled by Penn on the Delaware river in 1681, and the same year a free school, which is still conducted under the auspices of the Friends or Quakers, was established in Philadelphia. Among the declarations of Penn in his "frame of government" he asserted this immortal truth, long since forgotten by the men who have been responsible for the government of our Commonwealth: "Any government is true to the people under it, whatever be the frame, where the law rules, and the people are a party to those laws. More than this is tyranny, oligarchy and confusion." This sentence is inscribed in a bronze tablet implanted in the walls of Independence hall.

BIG STREET FAIR

Hartford Business Men Planning Great Entertainment for Ohio County Farmers.

Hartford business men are arranging for a big street fair here about May 22 and 23.

The plans are to offer nice premiums for the various products of the farm in a purely farmers' contest. Everything from a hen and chickens to a harness team will be included.

Hartford gets its chief business from the farmers of Ohio county and the street fair is being gotten up as a sort of testimonial of appreciation of that trade. The fair will be held on the streets and all Ohio county farmers and members of their families from the babies up will be allowed a voice in all the contests, guessing and otherwise, for premiums, but citizens of Hartford and other incorporated towns will be barred from contesting.

Substantial premiums will be offered for the best hen and chickens, the best sow and pig, the best mare and colt, the best cow and calf and, in fact, for everything to be offered from the farm.

Every farmer in the county should prepare to offer some of the products of his farm for a premium.

Consumption

The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption."

People are learning that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable.

At the faintest suspicion of consumption get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular doses.

The use of Scott's Emulsion at once, has, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health.

Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is.

Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.

SECOND ANNUAL OPENING Of T. J. Turley & Co's Hardware and Implement House a Grand Success.

T. J. Turley & Co's second annual opening here Monday and Tuesday was the most successful enterprise of the kind ever witnessed in Hartford, and was a thorough demonstration of what pluck and printer's ink can accomplish in a business way.

In the twelve months this company has been in Hartford it has spent more than $300 with the two papers here for advertising, and the rich dividends the investment paid it Monday and Tuesday was an object lesson in advertising.

The popular and guessing contests for valuable prizes advertised by this company, assisted to stimulate public interest in the opening, and by noon Monday fully two thousand people were on the streets of Hartford.

The contests for the premiums became a feature early in the day and continued with interest and zeal until the final count was made Tuesday afternoon.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the contests was the guessing at the number of peas in a half gallon fruit jar for a premium of a $75 buggy. A great many farmers had taken the trouble to count the number of peas a jar of that size would hold and the number had run all the way from five to eight thousand, and between these numbers practically all the guesses were made. When the count was made the jar was found to contain 6,244 peas, and Miss Carrie Shown, a young lady living about two miles west of Hartford, had guessed the exact number. The prize for second nearest guess, a $25 disc harrow, was won by Mr. W. R. Sowers, of Beaver Dam, whose guess was 6,242. Other close guesses were: T. W. Miller, Bada, 6,247; B. H. Moore, Hartford, 6,248.

Miss Viola Bennett, Bada, won the $20 cooking stove given to the most popular farmer's daughter.

The $20 cultivator for the most popular farmer, went to Mr. A. R. Pirtle, of Heflin.

W. H. Martin, Hartford, won the $30 double set of harness for the best pair of horses.

The $12 50 corn drill for the best peck of corn went to Mr. Ed R. Ashby, Centertown.

Mr. John W. Tichenor, Matanzas, won the $30 set of harness for the best pair of mules.

The $9 00 Oliver Chilled Plow for the best sample of stemming leaf tobacco went to L. E. Ward, No Creek.

The $15 00 set of harness for the best sample of stemming leaf tobacco raised with Turley & Co's fertilizer, was won by Mr. G. J. Stewart, of Bada.

After these contests were decided, Turley & Co. presented the samples of corn and tobacco to the Y. M. C. A., of this city, which sold them for the benefit of its treasury.

The contest furnishing the most amusement to the visitors at the opening, was that for the ugliest man for which a prize of a $10 saddle had been offered. Early Monday morning timid voters refused to vote in this contest lest they offend the party voted for, but as the day wore on numerous candidates were nominated and most every man here got some votes, but the contest finally resolved itself into a question of Newt Chinn or Jim Tinnel. The contest resulted in the election of Chinn, but Tinnel will probably contest the election.

Tinnel was very sore over his defeat and after he had mounted his saddles horse—he rode in bareback expecting to win the saddle—expressed himself as very sore over the result.

We understand that Chinn's father won a prize in a similar contest forty years ago.

Notice to Trustees.

The census blanks have been mailed to the various districts of the county. Should the trustees of any district fail to receive them by the 15th, they should notify me.

GHASTLY FIND

Of Dead Body of Henry Jahn in Airshaft at Render by His Father Saturday

Mr. T. Jahn, a business man of Render, found the dead body of his son, Henry Jahn, in an abandoned airshaft at that place Saturday.

Young Jahn left home the morning of February 4, and his whereabouts had been a mystery to the family until the finding of his body Saturday, just two months after the day of his disappearance. The young man was about twenty-two years old and unmarried. He had always been of a melancholy disposition and for several days prior to his disappearance from home, had talked to his friends about his troubles and expressed himself as tired of living.

The shaft in which his body was found was about twenty feet deep and as it had never been completed, about six feet of water was standing in it when the body was found. The hole was usually covered over and the finding of Jahn's body there can be accounted for only upon the theory of suicide.

Peculiar To Itself

In what it is and what it does—containing the best blood-purifying, alterative and tonic substances and effecting the most radical and permanent cures of all humors and all eruptions, relieving weak, tired, languid feelings, and building up the whole system—is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

No other medicine acts like it; no other medicine has done so much real, substantial good, no other medicine has restored health and strength at so little cost.

"I was troubled with scrofula and came nearly losing my eyesight. For four months I could not see to do anything. After taking two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla I could see to walk, and when I had taken eight bottles I could see as well as ever." STACE A. HARRISON, Withers, N. C.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

DIED OF GRIEF

Mother Dies of Broken Heart While Attending Daughter's Funeral.

While attending the funeral of her daughter, Mrs. Josie Joseph, at St. Mary's Catholic church, in Whitesville, Sunday, Mrs. J. H. S. Sadler, of Bell's Run, was overcome with grief and died within a few minutes.

While the coffin was being borne into the church, Mrs. Sadler, without a word of warning to those about her, sank down on the steps of the church. Friendly hands carried her into the church and medical aid was sent for, but she died before the physician arrived.

Mrs. Sadler was sixty-six years old and was an excellent lady, well-known in the Western part of the county.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Hartford Association had two splendid meetings on last Sunday—one for the boys and one for the men.

Two committee meetings were held on Monday, the County Committee and the Local Executive Committee of the Hartford Association. The outlook for the future of the work is very promising.

Beaver Dam Association will hold their regular weekly meeting in the Baptist church next Friday night, to which all men are invited. It is especially desired that all members be at this meeting as business of importance will come up after the regular meeting. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

TRAGEDY.

On Streets of Henderson.

Cabel Beverly Shot to Death by W. E. Gatlin.

Fired Three Bullets Into His Victim's Body as He Lay Prostrate, Then Reloaded Weapon.

Henderson, Ky., April 4.—At 7:30 o'clock this morning Cabel Beverly, a well known young man and a member of an old and influential family, was shot and instantly killed by his former employer, W. E. Gatlin, a local tobacco buyer.

The shooting took place on First street, and was witnessed by fifty people.

Gatlin was standing in Oan's livery stable when he saw Beverly coming, and an eye witness alleges that he stepped into the buggy and waited until Beverly passed, when he stepped out and said, "Hello, Beverly," and drew his revolver.

Beverly turned to run, when Gatlin fired. The first bullet struck Beverly in the left side, passing entirely through his body. Beverly fell and Gatlin stood over him and fired three more bullets into the prostrate form.

When Gatlin had emptied his revolver he ejected the empty shells, which fell on the body of his victim, and reloaded the weapon from his pocket.

After reloading Gatlin leaned over Beverly to see if he was dead, then started coolly away. He was met a few feet away by Marshal Bailey, who arrested and disarmed him.

COLD-BLOODED MURDER. At the jail Gatlin expressed sorrow over the tragedy, but said he was compelled to do it, that Beverly had threatened his life yesterday. Eye-witnesses to the tragedy say it was cold-blooded and unprovoked.

They say Gatlin hid in the buggy shed and waited for Beverly to pass, and then shot him dead. The killing is the result of trouble which began Monday, when Beverly was discharged by Gatlin.

HOW THE TROUBLE AROSE. After being discharged Beverly secured a shotgun, went to Gatlin's warehouse and threatened all the hands, making them leave the house. For this Beverly was fined $50 in Police Court Tuesday. It is alleged Beverly said yesterday on the streets that he would kill Gatlin if he did not pay the fine.

Physicians say either of the four wounds received by Beverly would have caused death. Beverly was a married man, thirty-six years old, and leaves a young wife and child.

GATLIN FROM TENNESSEE. W. E. Gatlin is a comparative stranger here, and came from Paris, Tenn., about Christmas, and began buying tobacco. He immediately retained the services of Congressman A. O. Stanley.

Excitement is still at fever heat over the tragedy, and there is considerable feeling prevalent against Gatlin. Beverly was unarmed when shot down.

THE POWERS AND HOWARD TRIALS. The Evening Post publishes to-day another appeal for assistance in securing the release of the prisoners.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, disorganizes and lessens ambition, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

curing for James Howard and Caleb Powers the legal advice and aid in developing the facts bearing on the assassination of Senator Goebel. These men have for three years stood in the peril of their lives. Against them is arrayed the whole power of the State and $100,000 of a special appropriation.

Guiltily or innocent, these men are entitled to a fair trial and to a full investigation. The good name of the State would suffer should these men go to trial without having lawyers of ability and standing and character to see that they were accorded all their constitutional privileges.

Previous trials have resulted in verdicts which the higher court has set aside. These trials have exhausted not only the resources of these men, but all the funds contributed by the men and women of Kentucky who were unwilling to see any man published on any accusation without having at command all the resources which civilization demands in every such trial.

In a few weeks these men will be again arraigned, and unless the public will deal liberally and justly by them they will again go into a trial for their lives, lacking the means to meet the inevitable and heavy expenses always entailed upon the accused.

Let those Kentuckians who stand for justice based on law, who have not heretofore contributed to this fund, give now and give with a liberality which will make up for previous neglect.

Constipation and biliousness cannot be cured in a night—a week; neither can one withstand the debilitating effects of the ordinary "liver pills" for weeks, but the gentle action of Ramon's Treatment of Liver Pills and Tonic Pellets make one feel gradually improved as the treatment progresses—no bad times, but a continued, rapid improvement. A month's treatment—one 25c trial box—will make the chronic sufferer rejoice. A trial will convince you; let us supply you. J. H. Williams.

Death Map of the United States.

The causes of death are to a large extent a matter of geography, declares one of the latest reports of the Census Bureau at Washington.

A map of the United States has been prepared under the direction of William R. Merriam, director of the twelfth census, in which the country is divided into twenty-one districts. These districts have been marked to show the diseases that are most fatal in different parts of the country.

For instance, the most fatal diseases in the district in which New York City is situated, are consumption, pneumonia, Bright's disease, apoplexy, bronchitis and diphtheria. The most sensational deaths occur in the Pacific coast district region, in the State of Washington. This is the only district in which gunshot wounds are reported as a prevalent cause of death. Heart disease, suicide and apoplexy show there the largest number of victims, and the record is held for the greatest number of deaths from alcoholism.

Lung troubles appear to be most numerous along the Atlantic coast from New York to Virginia and along the Mississippi river from New Orleans to the Ohio river.

Typhoid fever and malaria come far down on the list in mountainous districts, but appear at the top in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Indian Territory.

Although only three out of every 100 die of old age, there are a few fortunate districts where old age rivals consumption and malaria as the cause of death. Among those favored spots are Catskill, Adirondacks, Green Mountains, parts of Michigan and Wisconsin and the region on either side of the Missouri river.

Childbirth, croup and whooping cough appear to be most dangerous in the districts which have the least population and where, presumably, medical aid is most difficult to obtain.

Cancer, heart disease and apoplexy are more to be expected in mountainous parts of the country than in level districts.

In eight of the twenty-one districts rheumatism reaps a large harvest of death, noticeably in the thinly settled States where the inhabitants are most exposed to sudden changes of the weather.

Generally speaking, it appears that the majority of deaths in the country are caused by climatic conditions, while those in the cities are caused by social conditions.

The farmer on the Dakota prairie, for example, needs to guard against rheumatism, but not against malaria or heart disease.

The New Yorker may well dread lung disease, but need have little fear of scarlet fever or rheumatism.

Does Many Things Well.

The dominating figure in the conference of Kentucky coal operators and miners, which reached an agreement last week, was Capt. I. P. Barnard, of Louisville. Capt. Barnard is a man of diverse interests, but a master in all of them. In a quiet, unobtrusive way, he has gone a head and made a success of various enterprises, and few, if any, men have done more toward the development of the State's mineral resources. Besides being president of the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Company, he is also president of the Bryne & Speed Company, coal distributors; president of the Taylor Mining Company, president of a bank at Beaver Dam and president of the Western Coal Operators' Association.

Capt. Barnard enjoys to an unusual extent the confidence and admiration of the wage-workers in the various enterprises with which he is connected, and in the various conferences between miners and operators, his voice and influence have always been exerted for a harmonious and fair agreement. Though he does not look it, Capt. Barnard is old enough to have been a gallant Confederate soldier, and he won his title, while a mere boy, by gallantry and resource during the Civil War. In spite of his multifarious business interests, Capt. Barnard finds time for considerable activity in the Elks' fraternity, of which he is one of the most popular members.—Louisville Times.

Jo Blackburn's Latest Story.

A prominent gentleman of Frankfort, a candidate for a judgeship, had been overwhelmingly defeated at the polls. He felt a trifle sore over the defeat, especially when he learned that many personal friends had voted against him, among others a devoted old negro servant, who had been in the family service since ante-bellum days. Occasion offering, he spoke of the matter to the old man, expressing his regret that Zeke should have not seen his way clear to voting for him.

"Why, Zeke," he said, "I'm indeed surprised to think that an old servant of mine, to whom I have always shown the greatest kindness, and for whom I have ever had a real affection, should have turned against me. However, Zeke, as an evidence that I cherish no bad feelings in the matter, here's a dollar for you. At last you must be congratulated on having the courage of your convictions."

Old Zeke smiled feebly. "In that case, sah, you oughter give me $5; I voted ag'in' you five times."—New York Times.

How the Fish Was Drowned.

A German scientist—he could only have been German—once conceived, we are told, a plan to train a fish to live out of water. He placed a thriving little carp in a small tank, and with infinite patience and great exactness removed from the tank one spoonful of water every day, at the same time increasing gradually the amount of oxygen in the water. In time the water barely covered the carp, and still it thrived. The quantity of water continued to diminish, and, by slowly adapting its method of breathing to the new conditions, the fish began to breathe air and, indeed, became quite terrestrial in its habits before the tank was entirely dry. The scientist had grown to love the carp. He fed it from his own hand, and now that it was living in the same element with himself, he took it from the tank and let it as free to follow its own devices as was the family cat. The little fish also loved its master. It followed him about from place to place, flapping along after him, stopping only occasionally to leap for a passing fly. One day the scientist was crossing a bridge. The carp, as usual, was at

About the middle of the bridge a fat house fly was sunning itself on the rail. The carp spied the fly and jumped for it, but, miscalculating the distance, went over the rail into the water—and was drowned.—The Great Rural World.

The Lazy Man's Hat Raises Itself

The newest invention is a hat which salutes ladies automatically. By means of a clockwork, the poor man who is too fatigued to raise his hat to a lady friend is able to escape an imputation of impoliteness. He has simply to incline his head and the hat raises itself gracefully. On his head resuming the perpendicular position, but goes back to its proper position. Of course, the owner has to wind up the hat every night like a watch—American Inventor.

Major Pond, the lecture manager, was negotiating with John Kendrick Benge for the latter's talk on "The Evolution of the Hummer." The major made some inquiries as to the scope of the lecture, and Benge replied that it began with Adam and Eve and came down to the present day.

"Can't you give me something other than that?" the manager asked jokingly.
The funny man reflected for a moment and then said, "I might write in some of your jokes if you think the audience will stand it."
